

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

TEMPERANCE.

A Double Death in a Tenement House—A Man and his Wife Found Dead this Morning—Intemperance the Probable Cause. Two deaths occurred early this morning under rather suspicious circumstances in a tenement house in the southern part of the city.

The man's name was John Gallagher. He was an Irishman, and did not do anything in particular for a living, having lost one of his hands. His wife was a hardworking woman, and has generally borne the reputation of being temperate. She worked out by the day, did washing, cleaning and the like, and supported her husband. They lived in one small room on the back of the third floor of No. 609 Swanson street in the Third ward.

A little girl living on the premises states that Gallagher was seen at the front door last evening in good health, but some of the other occupants of the building say that he was about the house, but was not seen to come with the exertion of moving their household effects on last Thursday, when they moved into the present quarters after being turned out of a house near Water and Dock streets. This possible sickness would show cause for the death of the man; but the fact that both the man and the woman were found dead at nearly the same time cannot so easily be accounted for.

The woman was known to be in good health, strong and healthy, and was seen to go to the store, in whose back the house is situated, was informed early this morning that the deaths had taken place, and visited the spot. He found the man lying dead on the bed in their third story room, and the woman dead on the floor, facing in the other direction from the man. A small tin kettle partly filled with whisky was found on a trunk near the bed. The officer immediately gave orders that nothing was to be done until the inquest was held at the Coroner to hold an inquest.

The inquest was to be held at some time during the morning, but until the result of that case cannot be made. On visiting the spot this morning the body was found as described. The house is one entire family, and none of the families are very small, by any means. The house is in the filthy condition usual to such places, and the strong and unpleasant odors that greet the nose of the visitor are anything but pleasant.

The various inmates of the house have different stories of the occurrence, from which it is almost impossible to glean one which will combine the principal facts. The landlady of the house, living on the first floor, says that she had no knowledge of anything connected with the affair until about half-past five o'clock this morning, when some came down stairs and told her that Gallagher was dead, and that his wife and another woman living on the third floor had lifted him from the floor where he had been lying to the bed. A doctor was sent for, and when he arrived the woman was dead also, and was lying in bed, and the doctor said that nothing could be done to aid them, and directed that information should be given to the police, which was accordingly done. The officer then came and covered up the bodies, to keep the flies off, and closed the shutters, but otherwise left the bodies just as they had been found. The landlady expresses her sorrow that she did not know of the occurrence sooner, or something would surely have been done to help the sufferers.

No marks or signs were found on either of the bodies, but some time after death had taken place the bodies turned a dark yellow color. This, taken together with the fact of the whisky being found in the room, and the statement of a neighbor in the vicinity of the house, that the parties died from the effects of excessive drinking. The neighbor's statement referred to is that of a woman living in the third story room of the same house, who says that Gallagher and his wife were cutting up high, and making a great noise during the night, and that this uproar only ceased with the coming of morning. If this statement be true, the two undoubtedly participated in a heavy spree in the night, from the effects of which they died this morning. The result of the inquest will be published as soon as known.

THE LATE GEORGE C. FRANCIS, Esq.—The following circular has been issued by the officers of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, announcing to its employees the death of the late General Agent:—It has become my painful duty to announce the death of G. C. Francis, Esq., who died at 10 o'clock on Tuesday, July 26, and that the bells at all the company's stations be tolled from 10 to 4 o'clock P. M. of that day, at which time the funeral services will be held. It is also directed that the office at Altoona and those of the division superintendents be draped in mourning for thirty days.

A. J. CASBARI, General Superintendent. The funeral takes place this afternoon at 4 o'clock, from the late residence of deceased, No. 1285 Chesnut street. ASSAULT AND BATTERIES.—William Bates, a huckster, got into a quarrel with a general agent at Fifth and Chestnut streets yesterday, during which he wound up by striking his customer, Alderman Quirk sent Bates below. Late last night Jacob Stout and William Harris, colored, attacked another colored individual, named Peter Stevenson, on Broad street, Frankford, and slashed him recklessly about the face with a razor. His cries drew several policemen to the scene, but the attacking party succeeded in escaping.

John Kelly, a hearing before Alderman of Dallas this morning, charged with assaulting Policeman McLaughlin at Sixteenth and Wharton streets. He was held in $600 bail to appear at court. George Garvin, aged 30 years, living at Fifteenth and South streets, was charged with assaulting Alderman Morrow, to await the result of injuries alleged to have been inflicted by him upon his sister. THE DONNELLY CASE AND THE PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.—We have received the following communication from Dr. Harrison Allen: To the Editor of the Evening Telegraph. Some time ago you published a brief statement—misunderstanding has arisen from the account of a reputed case of sunstroke having been denied admission to the Pennsylvania Hospital. The facts of the case are these:—Donnelly was refused admission at 10 o'clock on Monday, the 22d inst. At 10 o'clock I saw the case. The man was suffering from exhaustion, and had severe pain. I did not pronounce him to be dead. At 11 o'clock, Dr. Donnelly was still complaining, I thought him to be a suitable case for admission to the Hospital. It was not until the representation of these facts at the institution that he was refused.

$60,000 IN ASHES.

DESTRUCTION OF A WOOLLEN MILL.

At sixteen minutes after 7 o'clock this morning an alarm of fire was sounded from box No. 238, located in the Gooch Will Hoop House, Wood street, below Twenty-third. The firemen responding with alacrity found the woollen mill of John Dearn, situated on Linn street, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth, wrapped in flames. Owing to the nature of the contents the heat evolved was unusual, and the fire spread so rapidly that the members of the various companies worked like Trojans to check the progress of the flames. Their efforts, however, were unavailing, and in the space of about one hour the place was a complete wreck. The property destroyed was a four-story stone building, rough cast, 45 by 80 feet, and was filled with the latest and most improved machinery.

The firm employed, on an average, above 300 hands. These had all gathered for their daily labor, when, at a few minutes after 7 o'clock, the alarm was given that the building was on fire, and the next seen was the flames bursting forth. The fire originated in the picker-room, situated in the northern part of the corner of the third story of the building. This room was separated from the other apartments by an iron door. In the place at the time were one workman and two boys, who attempted to extinguish the flames by means of patent fire-extinguishers, but were unsuccessful. Word was then communicated to the engineer, who made use of steam apparatus, but with no other effect than driving the workman and boys from the room, the dense volume of steam being too overpowering. The fire then spread, and in time to close the iron door mentioned above, and the consequence was that the fire soon spread. The loss sustained will not fall short of $60,000, upon which there are the following insurances:—

CIGARS.—Before United States Commissioner Clarke, to-day at noon, was arraigned one Michael Meyers, residing in Cobb's court, between Fourth and Fifth and Christian and Carpenter streets, on the charge of manufacturing cigars without a Government license. Peter Sides, Inspector of the Fifth District, testified that he and Marshal Ridgway found Meyers in the third story of his residence busily employed in making cigars. On the premises he found 300 and a small quantity of leaf tobacco. Meyers had not taken out a license, neither had he paid a special tax. Last night Acting Lieutenant Douglas, of the Sixth District, with a detail of men, succeeded in capturing James Hogan, John Kelly, and James McCormick. They were bound over for trial by Alderman Jones.

DROWNED.—John Ryan, aged thirty years, residing in the rear of No. 232 St. John street in the Sixteenth ward, was drowned in the Delaware yesterday. He was on board of the yacht William Tell, and was knocked overboard by the boom. His body has not yet been recovered. Yesterday John Hays was captured in the act, and on being taken before Alderman Quirk was held in $600 bail or trial. RESCUED FROM DROWNING.—Yesterday afternoon William Altemus, a lad, fell into Tacony creek, near the Powder Mill lane, in the Twenty-third ward, and was rescued from drowning by two youngsters who happened to be passing at the time. Admiral Radford. WASHINGTON, July 26.—The Navy Department has received the following advice:—Rear-Admiral Radford arrived at Flushing, Holland, in his flagship, the Franklin, on the 8th of July last, from the Downs. Advice from Japan. Rear-Admiral Rowan, by letter from Hong-Kong, June 11, says his flagship, the Delaware, was anchored there on the 6th of that month. Commander English has orders to prepare the ship for home, and to leave behind surplus stores of all kinds. The Ashuelot is there. The English iron-clad Ocean, Vice-Admiral Kellett's flagship, is also there, together with two twin screw-gunboats and two smaller ones of the "Bantery" class. There were two Chinese gunboats in port. The Admiral hoped to be in Singapore by the 4th of July.

The health of the Asiatic Squadron was excellent. Admiral Rowan, from Yokohama in May, in a letter to the Secretary of the Navy, says he would leave Japan en route for home the next day. The country is at peace, and the new Government appears to work well, and is rapidly introducing the important improvements of Western civilization. The coast surrounding the treaty ports is lighted with second and third-class lenses, visible from twelve to twenty miles. A dry-dock, with extensive machinery for construction and repairs, will be ready for service in October in the harbor of Yokohama. A line of telegraph is in operation between the public offices of Yeddo and the Custom House in Yokohama, which is open to foreigners for a small charge. The Admiral says:—"I shall leave the Idaho and the Monaco here. Of foreign ships there are the French frigate Venus (Rear-Admiral Mandet), and the Supply, and the English corvette Barrosa.

THE GREAT MASSACRE.

The City of Ava, the Capital of the Burman Empire, in the Southeast of Asia.—The scene of the Massacre. A cable telegram published elsewhere states that there has been an insurrection in the principal city of Ava, resulting in the massacre of 1400 persons. Ava is the name by which the Burman empire in Southeastern Asia, adjacent to the coast of India, and its principal city, known under the same name, is situated on the Irrawaddy river, 350 miles north of Rangoon. On the 23d of March, 1859, every substantial building in the city was demolished by an earthquake. The houses generally are mere built, but previous to the disaster of 1859 the city contained numerous temples. The town consists of an outer and inner city, both fortified, and is built upon an island formed by the Irrawaddy on the north, and by branches of that stream on all other sides except the southeast angle, where it is bounded by a canal dug to defend that face of the city. The place is surrounded by a brick wall ten feet in thickness and fifteen and a half feet high, supported on the inner side by an embankment of earth, and on the outer by an apology for a ditch. The main wall, however, is kept in no repair, but the Government quarter is specially defended by a wall twenty feet high, and a stockade of equal height, which are kept in good repair, as the people are much addicted to sudden uprisings and royal assassinations—in short, to precisely such emutes as this one just announced, in which 1400 persons have fallen victims to their fury. By reason of changes in the Government, removals of the capitals, foreign wars, and domestic discord, the population of the city is constantly fluctuating, being generally found between 30,000 and 50,000. Forerunners only are allowed to erect brick houses, which are prohibited to the natives, for fear they will fortify themselves against the Government. Mr. Judson, the distinguished missionary, resided in Ava many years. During the present century there have been frequent revolutions in the country, which has also waged two wars against the British. Since the earthquake of 1859 the court of the Burman Empire has passed back and forth between Ava and Amarapura.
